

HOSTA clone SOLAR FLARE (Henry Ross) - Plant Patent 7046
Largest golden-leafed hosta in existence. This potentially gigantic hosta in good soil can easily reach a foliage height of 3 feet tall and 6 feet wide. The new spring leaves start out chartreuse and gradually change to a brilliant yellow. By midsummer the color metamorphosis is light yellow with bright, mint green veins. Full light is needed to bring out this neat color change. Full sun, however, is not recommended. The ideal site would afford 3-5 hours of preferably morning sun. Available in late June.
